

G. David Adamson, MD, Chief Executive Officer, ARC Fertility

David Adamson is a board-certified fertility specialist with clinical professorships at Stanford and UCSF. He is Past President of numerous professional organizations and advisor to multiple fertility sector stakeholders. He has over 300 peer-reviewed publications, lectured extensively nationally and internationally, led development of several healthcare digital tools and received many awards. He is Founder and CEO of ARC Fertility, the largest US fertility network company that nationally increases access to cost-effective, quality fertility care.