Available April 2019

validationinstitute

THE VALIDATION INSTITUTE enables transparent and improved health outcomes and costs for necessary care through the Certified Health Value Professional (CHVP) designation. This professional training program will equip organizational healthcare purchasers and advisors with the tools and knowledge required to find and monitor vendors that provide the greatest value and service to your employees.

Five Reasons to Obtain Your Certified Health Value Professional Designation

- 1. Identify and monitor high-value, high-impact programs and sharing best practices.
- 2. Be confident vendor performance reports and claims are accurate.
- 3. Determine whether a program can improve quality and costs.
- 4. Deliver effective programs your employees will value and appreciate.
- 5. Facilitate improved health for your employees and significant savings for your company.

What is a CHVP?

The Certified Health Value Professional (CHVP) program is available in-person or online. Courses are created and presented by leading industry subject matter experts. The self-paced program is designed to establish a knowledge base on key topics relating to health care outcomes and costs. Candidates typically are advisors or responsible for purchasing health care benefits. They may work in the financial, benefits, or human resources areas of the corporation and may include the CFO, Controller, Benefits Executive, HR Director, or HR Manager.

What Will You Learn?

The CHVP currently covers twelve health benefits-related training modules. Certification requires candidates to pass a minimum of ten modules that take an average of 90 minutes each to complete including the final quiz. The training modules include:

1. Establishing Worksite Primary Care and Steerage Arrangements
2. Identifying and Monitoring High-performance Healthcare Services
3. Utilizing Effective Population Health Management Techniques
