

Robin Bugni is the Vice President of Network Product & Development for Contigo Health. She is responsible for the Network Services division product strategy, innovation, roadmap development, prioritization, and implementation. Prior to joining Contigo Health, Robin has held various senior roles at a health care payor including product development , business innovation, and technology roadmap development and deployment for provider, clinical, product and informatics departments within her organization. She has extensive experience with commercial payor solutions for all market segments, including ACA individual and small group, mid-sized, large, and national health plan solutions including products, spending accounts, health and wellness and telemedicine. Robin brings deep knowledge of customer needs across a full service set of network solutions available for today's employee and provider sponsored health plan needs. Robin lives in Pittsburgh, PA with her husband and enjoys indoor cycling, traveling, book clubs and volunteering.